

Col. Johnson,
Liberated War
Prisoner, Says
Japs Have Much
To Answer For

After three years, four months and eleven days as a prisoner of war of the Japanese, Colonel Edwin H. Johnson, husband of Mrs. E. H. Johnson, 419 Harrisburg street, recently liberated from Hosen Camp, Mukden, Manchukuo (Manchuria), is en route to the United States, and Gettysburg.

But two letters he wrote to his wife, one dated August 19 and the other August 23 preceded his arrival and were received by Mrs. Johnson on Sunday and Monday.

There was a strange coincidence in the receipt of Sunday's letter. Last January Mrs. Johnson received a letter from her husband which had been written July 9, 1944. On Sunday, September 9, exactly fourteen months later, Mrs. Johnson received her husband's first liberation letter. Through her courtesy The Gettysburg Times has been given permission to publish excerpts from the two letters as follows:

From the letter of August 19 (received Monday):

"The war is over at last and I have the first opportunity to write without censorship restrictions since it started. We expect to leave this camp shortly for repatriation but know no details yet, nor do we know how soon we will arrive in the United States.

Lost 25 Pounds

"My health at present is good but I am badly in need of the dentist and the oculist. I weigh 140 pounds—quite a drop from 165 pounds. I do not have much strength and conserve what I have very much. What with nutritional and intestinal trouble and malaria, it could not be otherwise. But I have given thanks many times that I led a reasonable life before the war and feel that this, together with a proper mental attitude, has enabled me to survive this experience as a prisoner of war.

"We have traveled many miles since the surrender in the Philippine Islands. Colonel Johnson mentioned the various camps he had been taken too, arriving at Hosen Camp May 21, 1945).

"My experiences have been unpleasant but such are the fortunes of war. I have tried to be cheerful and patient. The Japanese have many things to answer for as a result of their treatment of prisoners of war. Most has been uncalculated. However, harassment, beatings, forced labor of officers, insufficient clothing and medical supplies, arrogant officers have all played their parts.

No Permanent Injury

"Thank God it is over and we can soon forget among civilized surroundings and loved ones. The punishment the Japanese have already received was due them, and in so saying I do not want to appear vindictive. I have learned with surprise how very little a man can exist—not live—on, when forced to. However, I do not feel that I have any permanent injury and that I shall live long yet.

"The Red Cross supplies received have been a God-send, but we all feel that we have not benefited to the extent intended by the International Committee and the American people—something else for the Japanese to explain.

"My personal war effort and that of my regiment included little glory. Untrained, badly fed and equipped troops against a veteran enemy are at a great disadvantage, but we are proud that we held them for four months, and at least assisted the Allies general strategic situation."

Liberated By Russians

From the letter of August 23 (Received Sunday):

"Here goes the second letter to you in five days. It will go by air and should reach you in 10-14 days.

"The Russian army has come into the Mukden area. On the evening of August 20th, in the midst of an outdoor concert by prisoners of war, and unannounced, a party of Russian officers appeared at our camp and at 7:29 p. m., after contacting the Japanese camp authorities and our senior officers (American, British, Dutch) announced at a mass meeting (which broke up the concert incidentally) that from that moment we were free and that Major General Parker was in command of the camp.

They further stated that it was the purpose of the Russian command to facilitate our departure from prison camp and our journey home. So ends 3 years, 4 months and 11 days of incarceration as a prisoner of war.

Yanks Plan Departure

"Contact officers have arrived here by air from Lt. Gen. Weidemeier's headquarters in China to arrange for detailed plans to facilitate our departure. Much railroad trackage and bridges in Manchukuo have been wrecked by the Japanese and the ports are not yet cleared of mines. Therefore at present writing it is understood that air transport will be used to China (probably to Chungking) and thereafter, either by air all the way to the United States or to mine-swept ports on the China coast where transports will pick us up for the journey across the Pacific.

YW DIRECTORS SELECT TWO TO FILL VACANCIES

Filling vacancies in its membership caused by the resignation of two members, the board of directors of the Gettysburg YWCA elected two local women to membership on the board at the first full meeting of the directors Monday afternoon at the association building.

Accepting with regret the resignation of Mrs. Glenn L. Bream and Mrs. J. A. Borleis, the directors elected Mrs. Fred G. Troxell and Mrs. Ellen T. Buehler to take their places.

Mrs. Bream, whose work as head of the Girl Reserve work at the "Y" was praised by board members, will be succeeded in that chairmanship by Mrs. Troxell. Mrs. Bream will continue to assist in an unofficial capacity. Mrs. Borleis had been named chairman of the committee on expansion and also had helped with Girl Reserve work.

Mrs. Wentz Presides

Mrs. Buehler had formerly served on the board as the representative of the Business and Professional Women's club. Her election Monday makes her a regular member on the board with the B. and P. club being expected to name a new representative to the board.

Mrs. A. R. Wentz, board president, presided at the meeting and conducted the devotions. In the remarks she addressed to the board she emphasized the importance of "faith in God, faith in our fellowmen and faith in our cause" in carrying forward the work of the "Y." She urged a new emphasis on the building of wholesome home life and character training in the association's program for the coming year.

Committee chairmen reported on their plans for the year's work.

LEGION WOMEN WIN CITATION

The Gettysburg unit of the American Legion Auxiliary has been awarded a citation by department headquarters for meeting "all required obligations" during the past year, it was announced at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary Monday evening by Mrs. Fred P. Haehnlen, the president.

Mrs. Haehnlen also presented a report on the Auxiliary district caucus which was held at Chambersburg on August 25. It was announced that Dr. Ruth Miller Steese, Millersburg, is the new department president.

The next meeting of the four-county council of the Auxiliary will be held here October 4 and the recently-elected officers of the local unit likely will be installed at the council session, it was stated.

Will Explain New State Health Law

For the purpose of clarifying enforcement of the new restaurant sanitation law and regulations for local boards of health, Dr. C. G. Crist, county medical director, and William I. Shields, state sanitarian for Adams county, have offered to meet with borough boards of health and health officers throughout the county to pass on to them information they secured recently at a conference at Harrisburg.

The county officials suggest evening meetings of health authorities in the boroughs of the county for the convenience of the local health officers and board of health members. They will arrange to attend the meetings at times most convenient to the local boards.

Cpl. Robert Orner Home From Overseas

He has served in England, Ireland, France, Germany and Austria. He wears the Good Conduct ribbon, the American Defense ribbon and the E.T.O. ribbon with four battle stars.

Cpl. Orner has also been awarded the Bronze Star medal and the Merits Service Plaque. He served with the 217th Military Police Company.

The Orners are former residents of Gettysburg.

Great Pocahontas At Local Council

Mrs. Emma Tyer, the Great Pocahontas and her first and second Great Scouts, Mrs. Forbes and Mrs. Griffiths, of Philadelphia, visited Toxaway Council of Gettysburg Monday evening.

Myrtle Byers, Deputy over Toxaway Council and eight other members of Uncas Council of Waynesboro, also attended the meeting.

Following nomination of officers a covered dish luncheon was served.

Radio Service, Baker's Battery Service.

Last Scrap Drive Sunday

Gettysburg firemen will conduct their last scrap drive Sunday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. Every street in town will be covered by the firemen in this last drive which firemen hope will be the largest of the war.

The government has appealed to the country to conduct one more scrap drive to furnish the essentials for the wind-up of the long war. Firemen have been asked to make a thorough canvass of the community.

Every householder in Gettysburg is being asked to make a final clean-up of all scrap material in preparation for Sunday's collection. They are asked to have everything in packages or bundles and placed on the curb in front of their home by 1 p. m.

Firemen are urged to respond to this last call and turn out in large numbers for the final collection.

APPLE CROP IN ADAMS COUNTY CUT BY FREEZE

M. T. Hartman, Adams county farm agent, said today that Adams county's apple crop "will be less than two million bushels" compared with a normal crop of approximately five million bushels.

He attributed the sharp cut in the apple crop to an unanticipated freeze before and shortly after the apple blossom. He said the blossoms were out almost a month earlier than normal this year and the crop was severely damaged by the two freeze periods.

State Crop Affected

Harrisburg, Sept. 11 (AP)—Pennsylvania fruit growers are experiencing one of the worst seasons in state history, the Department of Agriculture said today.

The apple crop is expected to be of relatively poor quality with an indicated production of only 3,380,000 bushels as compared to last year's crop of 9,100,000 bushels and a 10-year average of 8,684,000 bushels.

Peaches are also disappointing this year and grapes in the Erie area are generally small and "scraggly." Peaches were only 51 per cent of normal on September 1, pears 19 per cent, and grapes 29 per cent.

Prospects for field crops picked up as a result of a mixture of warm, humid, and rainy days during August except in some parts of the western Pennsylvania where an extended drought hurt all crops.

Corn was expected to reach 60,192,000 bushels, an increase of 7,000,000 over last year; tobacco prospects improved to an estimated 52,091,000 pounds, which is about 12,000,000 pounds better than the 10-year average, with the yield per acre increasing from 1,223 to 1,451 from Aug. 1 to Sept. 1.

The department said "there was no change in winter wheat prospects production being indicated at 20,446,000 bushels. Barley is an excellent crop at 3,230,000 bushels. Buckwheat is estimated at 2,460,000 bushels. Hay yields have been generally heavy, but poor in quality with production estimated at 3,412,000 tons.

PLAY TICKETS' GROUP NAMED

Announcement was made today of the committee appointed to assist Mrs. R. D. Wickerham, chairman of the play committee of the Woman's Club of Gettysburg, for the presentation of the play, "Rip Van Winkle," by the Clare Tree Major Players here next month.

The production will be staged in the Majestic theatre at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of October 8. The play is being given for the benefit of the Sister Kenny infantile paralysis fund of the club, for which almost $500 has already been raised.

The committee to assist Mrs. Wickerham includes:

Mrs. A. Harrison Barr, Mrs. C. C. Culp, Mrs. J. Walter Coleman, Mrs. Robert Derk, Miss Ann Gilliland, Mrs. Ralph D. Heim, Mrs. Naomi Hett, Mrs. Dunning Idle, Sr., Mrs. Harold Pegg, Mrs. Paul Pensinger, Mrs. Charles Pitzer, Mrs. John Sanderson, Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, Mrs. Elmer Warren and Mrs. Earl E. Ziegler.

Mrs. Warren is chairman of the patrons' ticket sale. Patrons tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the committee.

Students' tickets, which will be available from school teachers, will go on sale later, at 35 cents each.

Adult tickets sell for 60 cents each.

Weather Forecast

Showers and cooler this evening. Partly cloudy and continued cool tonight and Wednesday.

MANY JOBS ARE OPEN FOR IDLE IN GETTYSBURG

One of the pressing problems confronting the nation today, and for some time to come, is that of employment for returning veterans and war workers who have been thrown out of employment while war plants convert to peace-time production of non-war products.

However, so far as Adams county and Gettysburg are concerned, there is no unemployment problem here.

A survey of local industries reveals that approximately 400 persons can be employed in various plants in Gettysburg.

The Gettysburg furniture factories will give employment to at least 250 men, so acute is the shortage of labor in those plants. The present payroll includes about 300 workers, with some women, and a spokesman for the company said the factories could use at least 250 more workers now.

Many More Needed

Robert Berkheimer, manager of the Gettysburg Throwing company, said he needs at least 50 men and women. The conversion of nylon to civilian use will place an added burden on the company and Mr. Berkheimer said he is eager to employ at least 50 more persons. He now employs about 105.

Twenty-five men are needed at the Victor Products corporation, makers of rubber heels. Although several war contracts were cancelled when Japan surrendered the company is swamped with work and needs 25 more workers. The company employs approximately 120 now.

The Keystone Garment company, North Stratton street, would like at least 50 more women to help relieve the labor shortage. C. G. Wagner, manager of the company, said his firm has plenty of work and wants more women workers. The firm now employs 90.

The Trostle Garment company, Fourth street, needs ten experienced sewers and the Standard Garment company, North Washington street, said its employee-roster is filled and that at the present time no more workers are needed.

Fruit growers and canners are also in need of more workers.

ART POSITION IN SCHOOLS IS UNFILLED HERE

The position of art supervisor in the public schools here remains vacant and there is little prospect of its being filled before January 1, Superintendent L. C. Keefeauver told members of the Gettysburg school board at their September meeting Monday evening.

The position has been vacant since last January when Mrs. Eleanor Stanton resigned to accept a position at New Cumberland. The school board has been unable to find a successor.

The board authorized a half-day session of school here on October 19 so that the local teachers may go to York to attend a district meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education association. Attendance there will count as school attendance for the teachers. Those who do not attend will be charged with the loss of a half day from their duties.

To Sell Property

The board authorized Secretary Mahlon P. Hartzell to proceed with the necessary steps for selling the Charlotte Thomas estate property on South Washington street to recover school taxes that have been unpaid on it for about five years.

New equipment including horizontal bars and climbing ropes to cost about $150 was ordered for the high school gymnasium.

A request was received from the local VFW post for the use of the high school auditorium on September 27 and 28 for a home talent show. The board set a price of $75 on the auditorium for its use for the two nights' performances and one rehearsal would cost $50 under established rental schedule. Additional rehearsals would cost $15 each. These offers were made on condition that the emergency lighting system in the building can be put in operation by that time.

Director Ralph Z. Oyler reported for the property committee and the report of the school district treasurer showed a balance of $26,893 in the general fund and $178.05 in the sinking fund.

President Charles S. Black presided at the meeting with all members present. The meeting was held in Superintendent Keefeauver's office in the high school building.

CODE VIOLATION

Antonietta Tulli, Philadelphia, was charged by state police before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehor with making a bad pass on Sunday. A 10-day notice has been given.

Two Injured As Auto Overtakes

Two persons were injured, neither seriously when an automobile operated by Clair Joseph Laughman, Hanover R. D. 1, left the Hanover-Baltimore highway and turned over, about two miles south of Hanover, Sunday evening at about 6:15 o'clock. Police said the accident occurred when Laughman, traveling north, attempted to pass another car going in the same direction.

Laughman received lacerations of the face in the mishap. Robert Arter, 14, son of Edgar Arter, Littlestown R. D. 2, suffered from brush-burns and shock. The Arter boy spent the night in the Hanover hospital, was discharged Monday. State police of the Gettysburg detail investigated the mishap.

Bobby March Given Recommendations

"Bobby" March, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George March, 501 York street, has been recommended for the ASTP at Stanford university, California from Camp Gordon, Ga. He has also been accepted for the Officer Candidate school.

Young March was a star basketball player at Gettysburg high school and then entered Gettysburg college where, as a member of the ROTC, he played baseball and basketball. He was also a member of the ATO fraternity.

He was inducted into service May 19, 1945 and sent to Camp Gordon where he starred on the camp baseball team. He recently completed his ROTC training.

Tojo, Instigator Of Pearl Harbor Attack, Attempts To End Life

(By The Associated Press)

39 More Japs Are Ordered Arrested By Gen. MacArthur

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Sept. 11 (AP)—Hideki Tojo, the Japanese wartime premier who ordered the treacherous Pearl Harbor attack, shot himself today as General MacArthur's operatives knocked at his door to arrest him—but American blood transfusions tonight had given him a "50-50 chance" for life.

Headquarters did not say why Tojo's arrest was ordered, but he had been listed unofficially as Japan's No. 1 war criminal.

Earlier MacArthur had abolished the imperial general headquarters and clamped censorship on Japan's newspapers and radios in a sudden disclosure of the iron hand beneath the velvet glove of occupation.

Seeks 39 Others

MacArthur also directed that 39 other persons, including Shigenori Togo, member of Tojo's Pearl Harbor cabinet, and Lt. Gen. Masahara Homma, of Philippines infamy, be taken into custody by the American military forces.

The list included:

Togo, Okinori Kaya, Admiral Shigetara Shimada, Nobusuke Kishi, Rear Adm. Ken Terashima, Michio Iwamura, Kunihiko Hashida, Hiroya Ino, Chikahiko Koizumi, Sadaichi Suzuki, all members of the Pearl Harbor war cabinet; and General Homma, commander of Japanese forces in the Philippines who was "responsible" for the death march from Bataan and who accepted General Wainwright's surrender.

Also listed were Jose Laurel, puppet president of the Philippines; Jorge Vargas, puppet ambassador from the Philippines to Japan; Heinrich Stahmer, German ambassador to Japan; Pratap Mahendra, president of the "Aryan army," Indian pro-Japanese organization, headquarters spokesmen explained.

To Replace Japs

MacArthur also ordered Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding the 24th Army Corps occupying Korea, to replace all Japanese in government.

SUB OFFICER CREDITS RADAR FOR VICTORY

The development of radar was one of the outstanding factors contributing to the victory of the Allies, Lt. Comdr. Murray B. Frazee, Jr., told Gettysburg Rotarians Monday evening at their weekly luncheon meeting at the YWCA building.

Radar was as much a part of the regular equipment of submarines as it was of aircraft, the oft-decorated former submarine commander told the clubmen.

Commander Frazee, who is the son of Major and Mrs. Murray B. Frazee, formerly of Gettysburg, a graduate of Gettysburg high school and former student at Gettysburg college, described "life on a submarine" and told of the construction of subs and of sub patrol duty.

Trained Technicians

Officers and enlisted men on a submarine, he said, must be thoroughly trained technicians because of the complexity of the equipment they handle. The young officer spoke from his experience as an officer during 35 months of sea duty on service craft and subs during which he served on the submarines Grayback and Tang, which were later lost, and finally as commander of the Gar.

The Rotarians' program committee discussed Monday evening plans for the observance of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the local service club on October 15. More complete plans for the anniversary observance will be announced later.

President James S. Cairns presided at the meeting. Guests included Paul Benjamin, executive secretary of public welfare in Philadelphia, and C. A. Bixler of Hanover; Ralph Stoner and William Blair of Biglerville, and Fred Matka.

Tokyo, Sept. 11 (AP)—Hideki Tojo, sly Japanese instigator of the infamous Pearl Harbor attack that plunged America into history's greatest war, shot himself today in a bungling suicide attempt.

American Army doctors quickly and unquestioningly drained American blood plasma into his veins and announced that it gave them a 50-50 chance to save the life of the bald, brown little former premier who had sought pitilessly to destroy the Western world.

Mumbling in Japanese while Japanese reporters eagerly clung to his every thick-tongued word, the 61-year-old Tojo said he felt "sorry" for the Asiatic people and preferred to die rather than face trial as a war criminal—a trial which had not even been ordered.

Planned His Suicide Elaborately

Tojo planned his suicide elaborately, with two automatic pistols and a pair of hara-kiri ceremonial knives wrapped in spotless cloth, but like his bid for world dominion, he botched the job.

He shot himself near the heart with one of the pistols as American counterintelligence officers accompanied by correspondents arrived at his suburban home to take him to General MacArthur's headquarters for questioning.

MacArthur's orders had followed an interview which Tojo gave only yesterday to Associated Press Correspondents Murlin Spencer and Russell Brines, in which the little "razor brain"—as his own people called him—had parried adroitly questions about the war in which he gambled and lost the Japanese empire.

A Japanese doctor, who was called promptly, said that Tojo was dying—that nothing would save his life.

Yank Doctors Try To Save Him

Then two American doctors were summoned, promptly gave him a pint of American blood plasma, and said he had a 50-50 chance for life, which he mumbled he did not want.

The American doctor in charge of the battle to save the suicidal former premier was Capt. James Johnson, of Newark, Ohio.

Tojo shot himself through the chest with a .32 caliber pistol after identifying himself through a window to the officers and a group of correspondents who went to his home 20 miles from downtown Tokyo.

The Japanese doctor who was summoned refused to treat Tojo, saying he had no instruments with him and asking why he was called. Tojo, in a stupor, also refused treatment from the Japanese doctor.

"Most Hated Man In Japan"

Tojo has been portrayed as the most hated man in Japan since the loss of the war; although he once was immensely popular.

Captain Johnson said the Japanese warmaker's chances for recovery depended on whether the bullet had passed through the lining of the heart or had just missed it. Tojo was in such critical condition that this could not be determined.

He has what Johnson described as a "sucking chest wound." He bled profusely, Johnson gave him morphine in addition to the transfusion and prepared to move him as soon as possible to the 98th U. S. Army Evacuation Hospital.

Plasma, not whole blood, was used, but Johnson said whole blood would be needed to save Tojo's life.

Winces When Given Transfusion

Tojo was sufficiently conscious to wince as the transfusion needle was thrust into his arm and the chest wound was sewed.

Another doctor, Lt. Frank Aquino, of Los Angeles, assisted Johnson.

Medical Technician Dominic Santa Croce, of Westfield, N. J., brought up medical kits.

Johnson removed the first bandage which the Japanese doctor had hastily placed on Tojo's wound but the wound began to bleed so freely that he had to replace it until he could sew up the opening and inject the plasma.

MACARTHUR IS BEING CAUTIOUS IN HEAVY ROLE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

General MacArthur has picked an opportune moment to crack down on Japan, since either by coincidence or by design his new edicts provide an answer to dissatisfaction exhibited in Australia (and to some extent in America) over what critics have described as the "kid glove" policy for Nippon.

Apparently the supreme commander has given Jap militarism an answer too, judging from the fact that the arch militarist General Tojo has shot himself. As premier, Tojo launched the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Had MacArthur been of the argumentative type, rather than a man of action, he might have taken the time to point out to those demanding speed and strong-arm methods that there are some 3,000,000 Jap troops under arms in the home islands, and that the wise commander of occupying forces moves circumspectly in face of such a set-up. MacArthur thus far has ashore a comparatively small number of fighting men, and not even that many angels would rush in on three millions and demand an immediate show-down.

Deals In Deeds However, the general isn't given much to debating. He deals in deeds, and his latest moves are of the direct action variety—abolishment of Japanese imperial general headquarters, and inauguration of a press and radio censorship.

In wiping out imperial general headquarters MacArthur has struck right at the heart of the militarism which has practiced aggression against its neighbors these many years. There we find the Tojos and other war mongers who fought to the last ditch to prevent the Mikado from surrendering.

This initial step in wiping out militarism will be followed by other drastic moves. For not only is the military organization to be disrupted but the leaders are to be put out of action permanently in one way or another. Already thousands of names are said to be on the Allied list of those who are to be tried for war crimes.

The clamping on of censorship was equally to the point. The Japanese press and radio have been using their privileges to spread propaganda at home and abroad. An excellent example of their sly type of skulduggery is seen in an article in the Nippon Times. The paper had the unmitigated gall to compliment the forces of occupation with the statement that there had been amazingly few cases of rape by American troops in Japan, adding that this was an improvement over former American records.

We may, I think, take both these moves by MacArthur as indicating that things are going well with the occupation. They bespeak assurance on his part.

mental positions as rapidly as possible "consistent with the safety of operations."

While the occupation of Japan continued without major incidents, Koreans massed in protest against the American announcement that Japanese officials would be left in office to carry out directives of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding Yank occupation forces.

Demonstrations broke out in Seoul, the Korean capital, despite assurance that the Japanese were "only working for the Americans."

MacArthur assured the country's natives, who have been living for 35 years under Japanese domination, that their rights would be protected and that American troops were in southern Korea only "to enforce the instrument of surrender."

In a proclamation he warned that any act to disturb peace in Korea or any hostilities against occupation troops might result in punishment by death.

Resumes Meat Route After Three Years

A truck from Shaney's meat market, York street, this morning drove through the town over the route that it covered last about three years ago. It carried a large supply of beef, and veal and lamb although pork remained scarce.

The truck will peddle meat through the town daily covering two routes, going over each on alternate days. The butcher shop itself is back on full-time schedule after having been on a schedule of keeping open only when there was meat to sell.

Named Consultant For Girl Scouts

Miss Marian Tupper, York Springs, has been named lone troop consultant for the Girl Scouts of Adams county. It was announced today. Miss Tupper is president of the Adams County Girl Scout Leaders' club. She has had a number of years' experience in girl scout camping work and last summer was director of the Girl Scout camp for the Harrisburg district at Pine Grove Furnace.

'Biggest And Best' York Fair Opens

With exhibits, concessions, racing cards and scheduled entertainment exceeding that of any previous year, the York Interstate fair opened today with uniformed members of the armed forces being admitted to the grounds free of charge.

The management of the fair has announced that it has left nothing undone to make the 1945 exhibition the biggest and best in the history of the York County Agricultural society.

Late exhibits in many departments had to be rejected Monday because of lack of space. Livestock exhibits are large and the biggest display of farm machinery since the beginning of the war is on the grounds.

Harness horse entries are four times what they were last year for the daily racing cards. Commercial exhibits surpass those of any year. Nine new vaudeville acts have been secured and elaborate night revues are announced.

hence might give a different verdict. The American officers immediately after the shooting sealed the rooms in Tojo's new country home and impounded his papers. They expressed regret that he had shot himself, saying that they merely had intended to take him to headquarters for questioning.

"I Am Tojo"

Before he shot himself, Tojo twice opened one of the big sliding windows of his house, smiled that hard, steady smile of his at the officers, and then slammed the window down so hard that it almost broke. One of the officers tried to display his credentials through the window. Tojo ignored them but did exclaim, "I am Tojo!"

It was as if he wanted to make absolutely positive that the officers knew he was the man they wanted. As he stood glowering in the window, Charles Gorry, Associated Press photographer, snapped his picture.

Then the officers and a party of correspondents moved to the front door, intending to go in.

At that moment they heard a shot fired.

The officers immediately began kicking in the door, wasting no time on the crowd of servants and Japanese police who were clustered around.

They broke open the door, which had a flimsy lock, and entered the hall, where another door was locked. It too was broken open, and there lay Tojo.

The shaven-headed, brown little man lay sprawled back in a deep chair. There was a bullet wound in his left chest just below the heart.

Tojo was dressed in a white shirt, open at the neck, a pair of olive-green trousers and shiny brown boots with tiny spurs.

There were powder burns on his shirt around the bullet hole, from which he was bleeding profusely. The blood spouted down the shirt front and onto his trousers.

On a table near the front of the room lay two sharp knives wrapped in a snow-white hara-kiri cloth. Apparently Tojo had not had time to use this traditional form of suicide.

CONGRESS IS ROARING FOR ARMY RELEASES

By MAX HALL
Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—Members of Congress roared louder today about getting people out of uniform. They also waded into their biggest day's work since the war ended.

Pearl Harbor . . . airports . . . government corporations . . . equal rights for women . . . surplus war goods . . . five-star generals . . . today's jobless . . . tomorrow's jobs.

Those were subjects for actions as well as words. Congress was settling down to serious business.

Those were subjects for actions as well as words. Congress was settling down to serious business.

This was the news on the Congress-military front:

1. Senator Edwin C. Johnson, (D-Colo.), contended that army brass hats want voluntary recruiting to fail "because they love the draft."

2. The Senate Military Committee met to consider a bill to speed recruiting by making army life more appealing.

Faster Discharges

3. Several senators and representatives called for faster discharge of servicemen. Maybe this had something to do with it: About nineteenth of Congressional mail these days consists of letters trying to get someone out of uniform.

Unemployment pay—the Senate Finance Committee struggled with this subject, trying to agree on a bill in some form. The original proposal, backed by President Truman, was to increase and lengthen state benefits to the jobless by adding federal cash.

"Full employment"—Backers of the so-called full employment bill offered a revised version stressing the role of private enterprise in creating jobs for all, but stating the government has a "responsibility" for bringing about full employment instead of just a policy.

Want More Airports

Airports—The Senate is debating a bill to out $500,000,000 in federal cash for airport building over a five-year period. The money would have to be matched by local governments.

Government corporations—The House took up a bill to make them call Congress "papa." If the bill becomes law, all government corporations except TVA and farm credit agencies will have to submit an annual business-type budget to Congress.

Equal rights for women—A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee seemed on the verge of approving an amendment to the Constitution, saying that women have the same rights as men—for example, in such things as jury duty, and equal pay for equal work.

Five-star generals—The Senate Military Committee was expected to approve a bill giving the five-star generals and admirals those ranks permanently.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR SLAIN TOT

South Fork, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP)—Simple funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Evangelical church for three-year-old Phyllis Jean Epperson who was beaten to death with rocks last Wednesday.

Four high school boys, neighbors of the little girl, carried the tiny white casket into the church.

Hundreds of floral offerings from all over the country overflowed the room in the home of the child's grandmother, Mrs. T. Harvey, where the body lay.

Up to Monday no word had been received from the child's father, who is serving with the Marine Corps in the Philippines. But Mrs. Mary Epperson clung to the hope that she would hear from her husband before Phyllis Jean was buried.

Meanwhile, nine-year-old James Alloyd Edwards who police said confessed he beat the child, played happily in the county jail with the son of the warden.

The boy told reporters he was not lonesome but seemed overjoyed yesterday when his mother came to see him.

Deputy Coroner Joseph Govekar and state police Sergeant Vincent P. Bunch were expected to confer on a date for a public inquest. Govekar indicated, however, the boy would not be present at the hearing. "Apparently he is too young to realize the seriousness of the case and will not be subpoenaed to the inquest," Govekar said.

Coutians Arrive At San Antonio Base

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 11 — Cpl. George E. Hollabaugh, Biglerville, and S. Sgt. Grover W. Ridler, 50, West Broadway, have arrived at the San Antonio district, AAF Personnel Distribution Command for processing and reassignment.

Hollabaugh spent 32 months in the Southwest Pacific. He wears the Good Conduct medal, two unit citations, and the Asiatic-Pacific theater medal with 10 battle stars.

Drinks DDT In Mistake For Water

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11 (AP)—James Satira is proof today that the army's insecticide, DDT, doesn't kill human beings, at least not instantly and not if there is a doctor with stomach pump handy.

Satira gulped down about four ounces of DDT thinking it was water.

"My throat began to burn, but I kept calm," said Satira. My eyes became blurred and I began to shake all over.

Then came the doctor and "today I have a hangover-like feeling," said Satira.

ASSAIL MARTIN'S STAND ON TAXES

Harrisburg, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Democratic State committee says Governor Martin "should set his own house in order before he proceeds to reorganize the federal tax situation" in a statement commenting on Martin's stand for lower income levies.

"If Pennsylvania's governor wants to help Pennsylvania's business during what he terms the critical reconversion period," the committee said in a statement, "he must act while Pennsylvania's business is reconverting."

"Pennsylvania's tax reforms, which the governor has been talking so much about, will not help reconversion if they are delayed until 1947."

The committee said it accepted the challenge in the governor's platform which it added "opposes the Full Employment Bill, the Health and Social Security Bill and favors the abolition of price controls."

In another statement, the committee asserted the Commonwealth "is in effect, requisitioning disability pensions received by veterans from the federal government because of battle injury, for general family relief purposes."

The Department of Public Assistance, the committee added, has directed that disability pension received by a veteran be counted as part of the family income when a relief allowance is fixed.

"Disability pensions received because of battle injury become a mockery if they are used to supplement Department of Public Assistance funds," the committee stated.

17-Month Old Baby Is Burned To Death

Meadville, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP)—John Grady, 17-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grady, burned to death this morning in a fire which destroyed their home. A brother, Charles, 2, was rescued.

The mother had gone to work early this morning leaving the children in care of a friend, Blanche Deeter.

Awakened by smoke she carried the elder child to safety but was turned back in her repeated attempts to rescue the other child. The father of the children is serving overseas with the army.

Four Ways To Store Celery

The many nutritional benefits of celery are valuable additions to the family menu in late fall and winter when diets are usually deficient in the important minerals and vitamins furnished in raw vegetables. Therefore, celery should be grown with the major aim of storing it so supplies will remain available as late as possible. In fact, it may be stored for all-winter use. Fortunately there are at least four simple, inexpensive ways to store this crop under ordinary home and garden conditions.

Not only is the Giant Pascal one of the most nourishing varieties of celery and at the same time a peer of all the green, crisp types, but it is easy to store by ridging it in the row where it grows. Soil should be heaped up around the clumps as growth progresses, with a final application almost to the leaf tips just before freezing weather arrives. Then the crest of the ridge should be covered with dry straw, hay or leaves and two boards placed lengthwise along the ridge to form an inverted V to shed rain and snow from the protective cover. Other late varieties may be stored in a similar manner.

Small crops of celery should be moved to an abandoned hotbed pit or coldframe from which sufficient soil has been removed to permit setting the clumps upright side by side, with soil well firmed around the roots. Some water may be applied to settle the soil, providing ventilation is employed to carry off excess moisture after sash are placed on the bed. Of course, sash must be covered with dry vegetation to provide shade until the crop is consumed.

Where there is sufficient floor space in a dark, cool cellar, celery of the late crop may be moved by pulling up the clumps by the roots and transplanting them on three

DELAY IN END TO WAR MEANS BOON TO FARMER

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—A delay of at least four months in declaring the war officially at an end could be a multi-million dollar boon to farmers.

It also would give them until 1949 to adjust their war-expanded production of food products to prospective smaller peacetime requirements.

Early in the war congress passed a law directing the agriculture department to support farm prices at not less than 90 per cent of parity for a two-year period after the war.

"Time Not Yet Arrived"
Under terms of that law, the two-year period does not begin until the first day of January after the President, by proclamation, or the congress, by resolution, declares the war ended.

Hence, should the war be declared officially over before next January 1, farm price supports would cover 1946 and 1947. On the other hand, should official end of the conflict be delayed until some time in 1946, the government would be committed to support farm commodities for a three-year period ending January 1, 1949.

This latter course appeared the more likely. President Truman in his message to congress last week emphasized that "the time has not yet arrived" to proclaim the war ended.

Agriculture department economists have estimated that it may cost the government more than $1,000,000 a year to carry out the farm price support program.

Continuance of the 90 per cent parity support program through 1948 could be expected to do much toward keeping farm prices from becoming an important issue in the next presidential campaign.

Parity prices are the declared goal of existing farm laws. Parity, in brief, is a price at which a commodity has a buying power—in terms of articles ordinarily bought by farmers—approximately the same as it had in a base period, usually 1909-14.

Rain Refreshes Parched Community

Avelia, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP)—Residents of this Washington county community, whose water supply for the past week was limited to a few neighborhood springs and wells and that hauled in by tank truck, quenched their thirst and took shower baths to their heart's content Monday.

More than an inch and a half of rain drenched the town yesterday, bringing to an end a drought that had dried up the town's reservoir.

Within a few hours after the heavy showers started, water was splashing over top of the reservoir dam, and by mid-morning water service had been restored to even the highest points in town.

Allied Secretaries Will Discuss Italy

London, Sept. 11 (AP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes told a press conference today that Italy would be the first topic for the conference of foreign ministers of five Allied nations meeting this afternoon and that the atom bomb was not on the agenda.

The foreign secretaries of Russia, Great Britain, France and China are here with Byrnes, starting peace machinery provided by the Potsdam conference.

Byrnes himself did not say so, but it was understood that the United States would ask that the bulk of Italy's colonies be left under Italian control as trusteeships, with United Nations supervision.

It is expected that the Dodecanese islands, off Turkey's west coast, will go to Greece. At the narrows of the Mediterranean—Pantelleria—the first island conquered by air power alone—probably will become either a British or international base. A strip of Italian Eritrea will be claimed by Ethiopia.

WAINWRIGHT TO TELL "STORY"

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright is ready to tell the "pitiful story" of the last days of Corregidor and the prison horrors that followed.

He hasn't said just when his report will be given to the War Department. And there is no indication when it will be given to the nation. Perhaps that won't come until the army has tracked down the individual Japanese responsible for the grim details of the story.

The general's taking a rest today—a well-earned one. Yesterday he:

1. Saw his wife for the first time in four dreary years.

2. Made three speeches.

3. Got the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman.

4. Rode through miles of cheering spectators—in an open car in typical (hot and humid) Washington weather.

5. Held a news conference, at which he disclosed that Japanese jailers heaped "indignities" on high ranking American officers.

Wainwright did not enumerate these "indignities." The most he would say was that officers were forced to work like "any Chinese coolie."

But earlier he told the Senate that his story of defeat and capture must be told "in all its ghastly detail."

"The American people," he said, "must realize fully the nature of the enemy we knew so well."

Ex - Sailor Faces Charge Of Murder

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP)—District Attorney H. Vance Cottom said a formal murder charge against Frederick Hauser, 18-year-old ex-sailor, in the death of Fayette City's "Sunshine Girl" will be filed sometime today before Justice of the peace Edward Breakwell of Perry township.

Cottom and state police yesterday drove Hauser, handcuffed and under close guard, over the 27-mile route which led to the secluded spot where pretty 17-year-old Anna Elizabeth Dreyer was found strangulated.

Hauser, who Cottom said had signed a statement he beat Miss Dreyer into unconsciousness, refused to leave the car at any point during the trip.

Egg shells are chiefly formed of carbonate of lime.

BEST THINGS
When all things are understood
What is fortune's greatest good?
Wealth and fame which all must lose?
Championships which all must lose?
What when truly men can know,
Would they for their labors choose?
Most of us, through smiles and tears:
Peace and faith throughout the years.

Not the prizes of the few
For the utmost men can do,
But a place with laughter gay,
Time for music, mirth and song,
Childhood—undisturbed at play,
Courage when a plan goes wrong,
Family circle, brave and fine,
Unto these all hearts incline.

Life, from cradle to its close,
Little more than these bestows:
Strength for burdens large or small,
Friends to share what has to be,
Faith in God when sorrows fall,
Laughter when the mind is free,
Home, with love and pride endowed,
Life is best with these allowed.

Today's Talk

WITH A SERENE MIND
With a serene mind you look out upon life, and all its problems, difficulties, and mysteries, and get a picture that no one else is able to get, unless they, too, have their mind tuned to serenity. All beauty is seen in its perfection. You are able to appraise things at their full value. You can look history in the eye and sense its truths and imperfections. You can even view the world's tragedies and not lose faith. The serene mind is one of feeling and understanding, and with a clear vision. No one can long be either healthy or happy with a troubled mind. The outstanding fact about religion is that it helps greatly to cultivate a serenity of spirit, and clothes the thoughts of the mind with confidence. Sincere prayer sweeps out the mind. God has endowed all Nature with serenity, so that man might find in her, also, illustrated evidences of his universal desire that God and Nature should be recognized as one. Certainly Nature inspires one to serenity. To the understanding mind, dozens of various languages are spoken, and interpreted at once, though spoken silently. Each flower, each tree, each waft of the wind, has a language of its own. The eye of Nature is always open, and directed to the eye of him who would become akin to her and all her works. Look into the star-populated sky at night. Is it not a sight to inspire holy reverence for the Creator of this vast, and seemingly endless, expanse of space? How can anyone look at such a spectacle and not become humble in spirit and serene in mind? No matter how many times I look into the firmament of night, my thoughts revel in the wonders presented so startlingly before my mind. No small thoughts went into the building of this universe! The serene mind is free of all worry, all confusion, and every disturbance. Therefore its vision is full and unclouded. It thinks clearly and logically. And anyone can have this serene mind by cultivating one's thoughts to it. Can anything be more worth one's while? Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "To Educate."

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11 (AP)—Seven-year-old John Wallace died Friday night two hours after he caught his foot in a bus door and was dragged a few feet and crushed against a curb. The boy was the youngest of six children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wallace, of Greenfield.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Miscellany: The Fire Company at a meeting on Friday night elected William Hummer and William Yeagy members and appointed M. E. Zinn, W. S. Schroder and Emanuel Wisotzky, trustees. A good deal of corn has been cut in the county. Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford is putting up a brick back building to her home on Chambersburg street. I. A. Trostle has the contract. Seminary will begin Tuesday morning.

Fatal Accident: Charles Walter, oldest son of Jerome Walter, of this place, was killed by the trolley car, Hancock, on Sunday afternoon. W. H. Jones was the motorman and C. Roswell Erter, the conductor. The facts obtained at the inquest show that the fatality occurred in the following way.

Walter, who had been taking people over the field, had stopped before his house on the Emmitsburg road, a little south of the forks, and had gone to get water for his horse, leaving him untied. The trolley car came in sight just as he appeared, the horse taking fright, he ran out to stop him. The animal was facing the car and Emmitsburg and turning suddenly, the hind wheels of the carriage struck Mr. Walter and threw him on the track only a few feet in front of the car. The fender struck him, cutting gashes in his head and breast. He was dragged about one hundred feet and was dead when relieved from his position. The car had to be hoisted before the body could be extricated. He leaves a widow and five children, there by a former and two by a second wife.

On Monday afternoon Squire Joseph Bushman, of Cumberland township, held an inquest before these jurors: Peter C. Stock, J. Hoke, William J. Martin, William Mayer, Althodore Bushman and Jacob Baker.

(A number of witnesses testified that "the car was running very slowly.")

The jury brought in the verdict "That the said Charles Walter came to his death on the 8th day of September, 1895, at Gettysburg, and that no person is responsible therefor . . . he was struck by a railway car, but that we hereby exonerate the said company and its employees from all liability therefor as they could not have prevented said accident."

Death's Doings: William G. Pfeffer, keeper at the Evergreen Cemetery, died Monday night. Mr. Pfeffer had been in failing health for several years, but was in bed only since Sunday. Heart trouble and dropsy were the cause of death. He has been at the cemetery since 1875. He leaves a widow, who was a Miss Edwards of Baltimore, three daughters and two sons, all grown. He was in his 71st year.

JAP GENERAL OF EMPEROR'S
GUARD KILLED

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Sept. 11 (AP)—Well informed Japanese sources said Saturday that fanatical young Japanese officers on Aug. 14 killed the commanding general of Emperor Hirohito's personal guards division and by forging his name sent troops to surround the palace in a vain effort to prevent the imperial surrender announcement from reaching the people.

Numerous Kamikaze (suicide) pilots dived to death in Tokyo bay as the result of the surrender and some threatened to kill Japan's surrender envoys to Manila—but there were no further major disorders.

The sources which gave this information said that the first surrender discussions among the militarists began in February—at the time of the great American carrier raids on Tokyo—and that the emperor began in March a fruitless effort to obtain advice on capitulation.

Offered Concessions

Before the surrender actually came, Japan had hinted officially to Russia that she was willing to yield Manchuria and north China in return for continued Soviet neutrality. These sources added, but this failed. The emperor's historic rescript of surrender was finally recorded on Aug. 14 at the imperial palace in strictest secrecy and was scheduled to be broadcast to the people the next day.

The group of fanatical young army officers learned of it and a lieutenant colonel and a major hatched a hurried plot to try to prevent its reaching the Tokyo radio. One of them was said, without confirmation, to have been a son-in-law of former war premier Tojo.

'White Collar'
Strike Is Ended

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11 (AP)—A strike of 12,000 "white collar" workers which threatened to shut down Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in six states was ended today as employees agreed to heed a war labor board order and return to their jobs.

Union and management both stated that continuance of the strike, called yesterday after a National Labor Relations Board ballot, would within a few days have halted production at Westinghouse plants in Pittsburgh, Derry and Sharon, Pa., Cleveland and Lima, Ohio, Baltimore, Buffalo, N. Y., Newark, N. J. and Springfield, Mass.

Such an outcome would have made 80,000 persons, mainly production workers, idle, officials said.

The NLRB strike vote was taken last week after the "white collar" workers were turned down by an NWLB hearing officer on their demand for a bonus or incentive wage system similar to that under which production workers are paid.

VETS GET AID
ON EDUCATION

Harrisburg, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Commonwealth offered a short cut to college today for Pennsylvanians over 18 years old who missed their chance for a high school diploma but can show they have the equivalent of a high school education.

Carrying an act of the 1945 legislature into execution, Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of Public Instruction, set up a special bureau under Dr. G. Franklin Stover to administer the plan for issuing "high school equivalent" diplomas.

The system has a special significance for service men and women and those who took war jobs but studied in their spare time.

Diplomas may be obtained by receiving credit for courses completed in regular schools in the armed forces or Merchant Marine, in the armed forces institute, evening or extension schools, or state institutions, or by examinations administered by the Department of Public Instructions, the 14 State Teachers' colleges, or by arrangement with the Veterans' Testing Service of the American Council on Education.

They also may be obtained by presenting evidence of having passed college entrance board examinations in 15 units of work, or of full matriculation and completion of year in an accredited college.

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat
Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs and medicines, in addition to the ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on plates, even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4c and 2 red points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

Exchange Shoe

Stamps Available

Shoe dealers now may apply to the Office of Price Administration's district offices, as well as to local War Price and Rationing Boards, for special shoe stamps to be refunded to customers, the agency said today.

Under the shoe ration order, stores may keep special shoe stamps on hand to give to customers who return new shoes or whose orders for shoes are not filled. These stamps are obtained by dealers from local boards. Today's action permits them to get the stamps from district offices, if they prefer, since most of their dealings with OPA are made through the district offices. The change is being made at the request of the trade.

The liaison officer now here remains until all have evacuated from this camp. It is believed the senior officers will go entirely by air via Chungking, Calcutta, Dakar and Miami, Florida. Do not be surprised, therefore, if I telephone you in a very short time from Miami.

Looks To Thanksgiving

"There is nothing remarkable now about such a trip—we understand that regular service is now maintained between Miami and Calcutta—eight days for the round trip. On the other hand the number of prisoners involved (understand there are 20,000 in Manchukuo area alone) may force the use of sea transportation. In any event it won't be long now and I fully expect to spend Thanksgiving with you all. Better order two turkeys—one for yourselves and one for me. Meat has been a scarce article in our diet.

"Since the 17th we have had ample and good food, mail which had been withheld from us for many months. Red Cross food and medical supplies, and some clothing to replace our rags. All this was locally available—not just shipped in—more evidence of Japanese treatment of prisoners of war.

"Immediately after arrival the Russians disarmed the Nipponese guard, gave their arms to American soldiers and confined the Japs, both officers and men. The Jap soldiers go to work every day now under American and British guards and they don't like it.

Appreciates Package

"I want to mention again the box you sent me. It was so welcome and must thank you again for it. I helped out two or three officers who were destitute. The underclothing, socks, handkerchiefs, soap, hairbrush, food and tobacco were specially useful. Aunt May's candy had melted and mixed with the broken boxes of tooth powder and the resulting concoction was over almost everything in the package. However, a little soap and water fixed things nicely and I even ate the candy. Many of us never received a box although they knew from letters received that more than one in many cases had been forwarded. Naturally they blame the Nips and do not feel that all the missing were the result of the fortunes of war by any means."

Colonel Johnson's address was given as O-5434 Infantry, U. S. Army, Hoten POW Camp, Mukden, Manchukuo.

Official Rules On Marriage Licenses

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP)—Deputy Attorney General H. B. Woodward, yesterday told Pennsylvania registers of wills, his opinion is that if both applicants for a marriage license "are registrants in another county, the license they receive is a restricted one and good only in the county where issued."

"However, if one of the applicants is a registrant in the county of issue then the license is unrestricted and the couple may marry anywhere in Pennsylvania," he told a convention.

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 5

"Take warning now by me for I must die
Take warning now by me
And shun bad company
Lest you come to Hell with me,
for I must die."

Suzy and Ramon swung into their dance to the music of the ballad.

"I love you, Suzy," Ramon whispered as he caught her in his arms and swung her swiftly around preparatory to one of their big finales. "I'm going to marry you. Yes, I am, yes, I am." He sang the words as Suzy followed his expert lead and a round of applause greeted their whirlwind finish. Suzy's eyes were like stars as she stood beside Ramon bowing to their audience. She loved it. As they backed toward the great doorway to make their exit, Ramon caught her arm, and bending nearer said in a low voice:

"Suzy, Carissima, don't go tomorrow. Stay over another week. Please, Darling."

They were right beside the orchestra and the chorus was singing all Suzy could do was to smile and nod a quick assent. Then she ran through the lobby toward her rooms.

Back in his dressing room Ramon leaped over a pile of empty packing cases in a burst of sheer excitement and joy. Suzy was staying. She cared more about him than she did for that solemn-faced guy from the North. Suzy would marry him. He took his cape from his shoulders and swung it high over his head. As he swirled the cape down again, it knocked over an alarm clock one of the boys had left standing on a box near the door.

Ramon bent over, brushed aside the folds of the material and picked up the clock which he placed on the improvised dressing and make-up table the boys had been using. He felt as if he could never stop dancing—he was so happy.

Suddenly Ramon heard a shout. One of the boys called him from the corridor.

"Ramon, Ramon, come quick. Something dreadful has happened."

He heard more shouts. People ran past the door. He struggled frantically with his slacks and belt and raced after Luke Hale, the hotel manager who was running up the stairs, taking two at a time. Ramon followed him into Suzy's sitting room and up to the door of the bedroom where they both collided in a frightened huddle at the end of the dressing table.

"My God, what has happened?" Luke Hale exclaimed, bending over the body. "Dolores Carabelle!"

Ramon stooped down beside him. "Dolores! What have they done to you?" He put out his hand and touched the veil that covered the lower part of her face. "Dios mio. Diga algo, por favor. Why doesn't somebody do something?"

"Better not touch anything," Seth said in a low voice. He was leaning against the wall on the opposite side of the room and his face was white and set as if chiseled in marble. Besides him a door into a closet was open and inside the closet an electric light was burning. "Hale, you better get a doctor—I didn't do anything except call you."

"The manager straightened up and stood for a moment looking down at the figure at his feet. Ramon was crossing himself and muttering something unintelligible in the Island patois.

"When did you find her? How long have you been here?" Seth said in a dull, flat voice. "I was so stunned, I don't know much about time. You'll have to get the police."

"Suzy, stay out of here." But he was too late. He reached her as she swayed backward away from the door into the sitting room.

"What happened to Dolores?" she asked in a frightened voice, as he led her to a sofa in the corner of the room. "Is she—?"

"Yes," Seth's voice was sombre. "She's dead. We'll have to stay here now until the police arrive."

They heard General Howard calling from the hall. "Seth Peabody."

"We're in here, General, waiting for the police."

The General came in and shut the door decisively behind him. "Bad business," he was wheezing a little. The stairs had been a hard pull for him. "I hear the poor little thing was strangled. Anything more I should know?"

"Yes, Sir. There is 'The dossier' has been stolen!"

A sharp cry from Suzy punctured the heavy silence in the room. "That's why she was killed; That explains everything." Cold anger vibrated in her voice. "Dolores was no saint, but she didn't deserve to die. She came into that room and found someone taking the dossier out of the trunk. That person killed her because she knew too much. Knowing the thief cost Dolores her life."

Brusquely the General waved her explanation. "You may be right, my dear, but this tragedy transcends anything which you or I may think. The government has suffered a serious loss with the disappearance of those plans. Re-

SIAMESE TWINS GO TO MUSEUM

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 11 (AP)—The bodies of Louise and Micaila Miranda, Arizona's Siamese twins who died late Sunday, will be preserved in the pathological museum at St. Monica's hospital here it was announced Monday.

In a statement to The Associated Press, Dr. Maurice Rosenthal, Phoenix pathologist, and Dr. Frank Edel, who attended the babies, said that if possible the organs of the twins will be examined in situ instead of by autopsy "to preserve the anatomical relationships of the congenital malformation."

The twins died 14 days after their birth in the mud-thatched cottage of their parents, Rita and Jesus Miranda, at nearby Coldwater. Death came simultaneously to both girls.

The feat of the maternal grandmother, Carmen Samaniego, 48, who assisted the 25-year-old mother in the birth without medical aid, was "remarkable," the statement said.

"The birth shows how the human body can adapt itself to rare and unusual situations since it is said that one was a breach (buttocks first) and the other a head delivery and since they were joined together."

"It is a wonder the hernial sac that joined them did not rupture then."

CARDS GAIN ON CUBS; TIGERS, NATS DIVIDE

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Detroit remains out in front in the American League scramble today because Washington ran into a dose of its own night ball medicine in Earl Caldwell, a midnight specialist from Chicago whose fast one dips and darts in the moonlight.

After routing the White Sox, 10-4, in the first of a two-night double-header by the simple method of scoring seven times in the first inning, Clark Griffith's moonlight saving boys ran into Mr. Caldwell's magic and succumbed, 9-4.

The split left them a full game back of Detroit.

Detroit opened the most important week of its pennant drive without the services of Hank Greenberg who had a sprained ankle and Eddie Mayo who was suffering from a bruised rib.

Rookie Comes Through
Steve O'Neill had to be satisfied with an even split in Boston yesterday and had to scramble to get that.

After bowing to Dave Ferriss who notched his 21st triumph in the 9-2 opener, the Tigers just did shadow Emmett O'Neill on a first major league hit by Eddie Mierkiewicz, a rookie just recalled from Buffalo. The score was 2-1.

The Yankees proved they aren't as bad as their recent actions would indicate when they stopped Cleveland's Al Smith, 5-1, on Charley Keller's second slam homer in the seventh. Ernie Bonham's five-hitter did the trick. In addition to snapping a five-game losing streak New York took over third place by a percentage point over St. Louis when the Browns bowed to the Athletics, 5-3, after taking the first game, 3-2 on Vern Stephens' 21st homer.

Billy Southworth's persistent Cardinals continued to hang on Chicago's coat tails, knocking over New York, 2-1, at night after Rookie Ed Wright of Boston had shut out the Cubs, 2-0, in the afternoon. The combination of events sliced the Bruins' margin to 2½, which can easily become an even 2 if Brooklyn can hold a 10-4 lead for one inning Saturday when they finish off their suspended game with the Bruins.

Brecheen In Form

Harry Brecheen did the job on the Giants, a six-hitter, for his 12th victory. The crafty lefthander has shown remarkable form since he shook the miseries out of his arm in mid-July, sweeping nine out of 10 and dropping only a 2-1 game to Boston.

Brooklyn squeezed past Cincinnati, 3-2, with the help of rain that forced the game to be called in the eighth and resulted in postponement of the second tilt.

Nick Strincevich tossed, Pittsburgh to a 9-5 decision over the Phillies cut to seven innings by rain. A scheduled second game was put over until today.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Neilson "Net" Poe won't be coaching the scrub football squad at Princeton this year—which doesn't necessarily mean that Charley Caldwell will have a Po' team. . . . It means that the family that was as much a part of Princeton tradition as Nassau Hall, prospect Street or the duckboards on the campus walks in winter won't be represented for the first season in some 55 years. . . . Edgar Allen, the eldest brother, was quarterback on Walter Camp's first All American team in 1889 and was such a terrific tackler that when a spectator asked if he was related to "the great Poe"—meaning his uncle, the poet—a Tiger fan scornfully replied: "Why man, he is the great Poe."

Then came Net, Arthur, an All-American in 1899 and a great drop kicker; Freshman, who later coached the freshman teams, and Johnny, one of Princeton's greatest heroes of World War One. . . . And what those five brothers did to Yale in their playing days still is mentioned only in hushed whispers around New Haven.

STABLEIZATION NOTE

Instead of giving tips on a horse, William Helis, who is noted for having paid $66,000 for a nag that hasn't raced yet, gives a horse a tip. . . . At least, on closing day at Garden State park, Felix, the clubhouse steward, was proudly telling how Helis had promised to give him a horse—one that would win a lot of races. . . . After vainly trying to decide which member of the big Helis stable it would be, Felix commented soberly: "I hope it ain't that Pericles."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

If Texas doesn't win the southwestern conference title this year, southwestern sport series will be 80 per cent wrong—which is only a fair average in any section. . . . The Rangers' Les Patrick tells National Hockey League bigwigs that it would be a mistake to move into Brooklyn because Philadelphia is a "far better prospect." . . . During the first game of the Pony League playoffs, Manager Lee Riley of Bradford (Pa.), socked a homer and was called out when the ump ruled he had been outside the batter's box when he hit. Then Lou Urecho walloped one for Batavia (N. Y.), and the fans collected $300 for him.

CONN HOME IN FIGHTING MOOD

By SID FEDER
New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Sporting a 91-point service record and a pair of corporal's stripes, Billy Conn came home from 15 months' overseas today in a great big hurry to see (a) his family, (b) a restaurant and (c) Joe Louis in a ring.

The restaurant was easy. And Billy, who never has been accused of backing away from groceries, treated the knife and fork in a manner to which they haven't been accustomed since he departed on a tour of 325 exhibition bouts for a million GI's in Italy, France, England, Ireland, Austria, Germany and way stations.

He had to be satisfied with "seeing" the family by telephone, since Mary Louise, three-year-old David and eight-month-old Billy, Jr.—to whom he still needs a formal introduction—are in Pittsburgh.

As for Louis—Uncle Mike Jacobs immediately began cooking with the prospects of a gate that figures to go into seven figures in a cakewalk, unless the Pittsburgh pretty boy or the bomber switch from busting beaks to writing poetry.

Billy was just like any other homecoming Joe when he climbed off the ATC C-54 at LaGuardia airport.

BUFFALO BILL'S DOUGH

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Chase National bank, publishing unclaimed accounts, noted formally in a list of names that it was safeguarding between $25 and $50 deposited by W. F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody.

Australia's native forests consist primarily of hardwood trees.

THOUGHTFULNESS BEYOND THE LINE OF DUTY . . .

This father didn't know, of course, that his son would require special medical treatment for a period of several years, or that his wife would need extra funds to meet rising living costs.

But he provided for both contingencies through a trust fund at our bank. You can provide similar flexibility to meet the unpredictable.
